Cancer Support Switzerland

EXPANDING OUR REACH AND IMPACT

WHO WE ARE

Cancer Support Switzerland is a non-profit organisation composed of professionals and trained volunteers who understand the profound impact of a cancer diagnosis. Since 2000, we have been the only association of our kind dedicated to meeting the needs of the international community in the Lake Geneva region. Over the years, our reach has expanded to serve all of Switzerland and neighbouring regions.

OUR MISSION

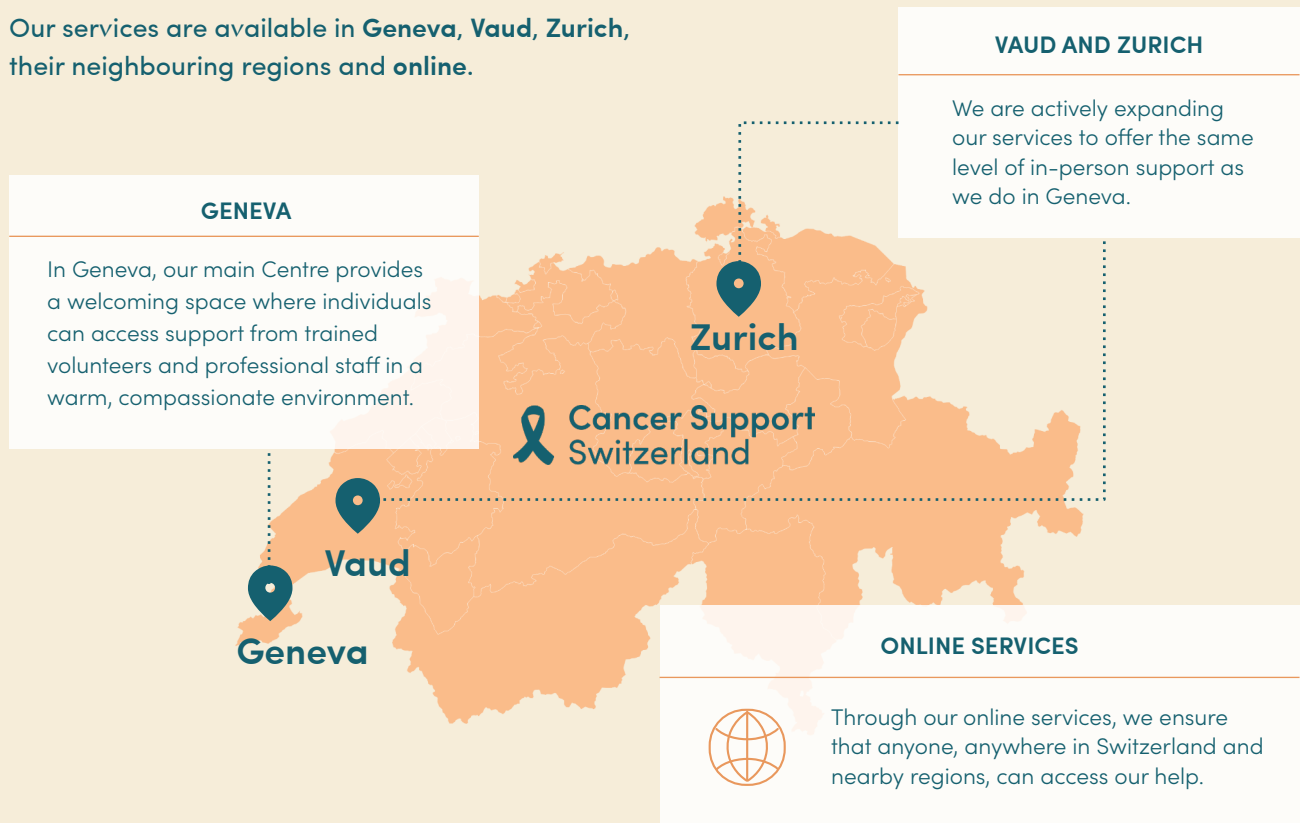

To provide emotional support, practical help, wellbeing activities and a welcoming community in English to anyone affected by cancer.

OUR VISION

No one faces cancer alone.

WHERE WE OPERATE

Our services are available in Geneva, Vaud, Zurich, their neighbouring regions and online.

SUSTAINED GROWTH AND COMMUNITY SUPPORT

Thanks to the generosity of our community, successful fundraising efforts, and the invaluable support of our donors, we continue to expand our network. This enables us to offer year-round, free and accessible support to those in need.

INTRODUCING OUR NEW NAME

In 2024, recognising the increasing demand for our services beyond Geneva and Vaud, we made the significant decision to rebrand as Cancer Support Switzerland. This new name reflects our commitment to delivering support nationwide.

As we approach the end of our first full year under this new identity, we are proud of the progress we have made and remain dedicated to strengthening and expanding our reach to better serve our community.

Message from the President

The year 2024 was a significant one for Cancer Support Switzerland, with the Board focusing on growing the organisation in line with the strategic plan for 2023–2025. We made measurable progress towards achieving our three goals:

- 1) expanding the scale and scope of services whilst building community for those affected by cancer,
- 2) increasing visibility and partnerships, and
- 3) expanding our resources.

The Board is keenly aware that the number of people living with cancer and cancer deaths in Switzerland is on the rise with a 15% growth in the number of cancer cases projected for 2018–2025. Many of those individuals are looking for physical, social and emotional support in English. The strategic plan is a tool to guide our efforts and help us reach more cancer patients, their families and caregivers with much needed support.

Thanks to the hard work of the management team, we were able to assess the effectiveness of our support services. With feedback from the people we support, we now have a clearer view of their needs and how we can best help. We are very pleased to report that, in response to this feedback, we established activities and support services in Zurich, along with a community of supporters to reach more people in need. This is a very promising undertaking.

In the partnership arena, Cancer Support Switzerland has stepped up its visibility and collaborative efforts across Switzerland. Thanks to the hard work of our many motivated volunteers, real progress has been made in fundraising, with the Steps for Cancer Support event a major driver of this success.

The Board is pleased with how far we have come and looks forward to continuing to improve on the progress to date. Most of us involved with Cancer Support Switzerland have been personally affected by cancer. We know how important support can be at difficult moments. The Board remains committed to reaching more people and ensuring that our organisation is a well governed, financially responsible and effective organisation. Talented management, devoted volunteers and a shared passion for the cause makes this possible.

Executive Summary

This year was transformative for Cancer Support Switzerland in that it saw us expand geographically, enhance our services and make strides in meeting the needs of those affected by cancer.

One of the biggest milestones this year was establishing our presence in Zurich, where we already supported 28 individuals in 2024. This marks an exciting step forward as we work to ensure that everyone, no matter where they live in the country, has access to the care and support they need.

We also focused on strengthening how we deliver support. Enhanced data systems have not only improved efficiency but also ensured that sensitive information is better protected. Monitoring and evaluation processes were updated, ensuring our programs better align with the needs of those we serve.

Reaching underserved groups has been another key focus. This year, our first men's event at the Geneva Centre successfully brought dozens of participants together, proving how impactful tailored outreach can be. Building on this momentum, we're excited to expand our efforts in 2025 to reach even more specific groups, including younger people, who can benefit from our services. At the same time, our expanded bereavement support program helped several families navigate some of their most challenging moments.

Of course, none of this would have been possible without our incredible community of supporters and donors. This year, the Steps for Cancer Support challenge brought together an inspiring group of nearly 2'000 steppers, uniting them in action for a shared cause. Their energy and generosity, alongside the steadfast commitment of our long-term donors, have been vital in helping us grow and improve our services.

We continued to build relationships with medical professionals and institutions to raise awareness about our services. While progress has been made, more work is needed to ensure people hear about us early in their cancer journey.

Cancer Support Switzerland serves a diverse population across Switzerland and neighbouring regions, representing many nationalities and backgrounds. This diversity drives our commitment to inclusive, accessible services that meet varied needs.

Our achievements in 2024 were possible thanks to the dedication of our professionals and volunteers. Their compassion and expertise ensure the high quality of care we provide.

Looking to 2025, we are committed to innovation and growth, ensuring anyone affected by cancer has access to the support they need. Together, we can continue to make a difference.

With heartfelt gratitude,

Support Services

CARINE KARNOUK, PhD
Counselling & Support Services
Manager / Head Psychologist

In 2024, Cancer Support Switzerland provided support to 246 individuals, delivering over 2000 hours of compassionate, person-centred care. Offering comprehensive and specialised services, we remain dedicated to our mission of nurturing resilience, promoting well-being and offering personalised assistance to those affected by cancer.

This year, we focused on expanding our reach. In addition to our existing online services, we introduced more in-person services across the cantons of Geneva, Vaud and Zurich, all while maintaining the standard and quality of care that we value. This growth has allowed us to better serve individuals and families across Switzerland and neighbouring regions, bringing us closer to our vision of making care accessible to all who need it.

Professional counselling remains our most utilised service, with 720 hours provided this year. We expanded our team with three new positions: in Zurich, Catharine Viveash joined as intake counsellor and group facilitator, and Tarryn Klotnick to support individuals, couples, and families; in Vaud, Caroline Ferrer-Aza supports individuals and groups.

In Vaud, we now offer regular Drop-In sessions, where individuals can connect with our team without the need for prior appointments. These informal sessions have become a vital resource for those seeking immediate support, helping foster a sense of community and connection.

In Zurich, we launched four services and activities: counselling for individuals, couples, and families, a support group, peer support with five locally trained volunteers and Walk'nTalk Zurich. We plan to further expand our services based on our capacity and the needs of the people we support.

Our support groups have also experienced significant growth. In addition to our long-established Geneva-based groups, we have launched the Zurich Support Group, which broadens our ability to serve a wider demographic. These face-to-face groups provide an invaluable space for individuals at various stages of their cancer journey to receive support in a group setting. We have also added a new in-person Geneva Support Group specifically for individuals who have recently been diagnosed. This group addresses the unique challenges that come with early-stage diagnosis, helping participants feel supported from the very beginning of their journey.

In addition, those dealing with bereavement can now receive support through the Bereavement Support Group in Geneva and the Online Grief Workshop. You can read more about this on page 12.

Within the Work and Cancer team, we have been promoting our services to corporate partners through collaborations, case-specific support and training sessions for employees and management, with several training sessions lined up for 2025. This marks a significant milestone in expanding our reach and support through the corporate world, allowing us to impact more lives in diverse ways across Switzerland.

To ensure that we continue to build capacity, the counselling team completed their training around sexuality and cancer. Peer supporters enhanced their knowledge through sessions on death and dying led by clinical supervisor Thea McFarlane, and Palliative Vaud.

We remain committed to running this survey annually, giving a voice to those we support and using their insights to shape the future of our services.

Launched this year, Community Spaces are a new and exciting way for anyone in the Cancer Support Switzerland community to come together. These casual, welcoming gatherings offer a chance to connect with others through fun, creative and social activities, whether it's art, singing, walking or crafts. We are so pleased to offer these opportunities to build connections and enjoy time together in a relaxed, friendly atmosphere.

Play Therapy:

Supporting children affected by a family member's cancer

BY ROSEMARIE CHOPARD

accredited Play Therapist and Counsellor for children in Geneva and Vaud

Words shared by a 12-year-old child in play therapy (anonymised) highlighting the impact of a parent's cancer diagnosis on children.

"Before [my parent] got cancer, I lived happily, with no special worries, having lots of activities. I loved when [my parent] came to watch my tournaments.

After [my parent] told me they had a cancer, I was shocked, then scared and worried. I didn't like seeing [my parent] unwell, tired, and losing their hair. [My parent] couldn't take part in things like before. I started to help more at home. I made efforts to manage myself independently and tried hard not to upset [my parent]".

Cancer disrupts the lives of everyone in the family, not only the person concerned. Children can be particularly affected.

When a loved one is seriously ill, children's lives are turned upside down. Separations due to hospitalisations, treatment side effects and physical changes in a sick person can make a child feel insecure and worried. Parents may struggle with how best to talk about illness and answer any questions without increasing a child's distress.

Children need help in understanding what is happening so they can overcome their feelings of insecurity without disengaging from their daily activities or school.

Play Therapy allows children to benefit from a neutral and caring space in the face of these trials. Children express themselves more fully and directly through self-initiated, spontaneous play than they do verbally, allowing them to share what they experience, be open about their anxieties and address existential questions. Playing out their experiences and feelings is a natural, dynamic and self-healing process, bringing out a child's unique resources and helping regain mastery and energy for everyday life.

An initial interview with the child's loved one will allow the therapist to assess the individual needs of the child and their family. Options range from individual sessions with the child or joint sessions with siblings, and/or parent-child sessions. Support is possible at whatever stage a parent determines their child is impacted, be it when cancer is diagnosed and the worry is about how best to share the news, or during the time when the parent undergoes treatment.

Finding Support for My Cancer Journey in Geneva

BY: NICKI

Facing cancer can be one of the most isolating and overwhelming experiences, especially in a foreign country where the language and systems are unfamiliar.

I completed my cancer treatment in my home country and arrived in Geneva two months later, seeking post-treatment cancer surveillance. However, I faced an unexpected obstacle: email enquiries I sent (in English) to various service providers went unanswered, leaving me frustrated and anxious.

I felt lost and alone, unsure of how to navigate the healthcare system. That's when I discovered Cancer Support Switzerland via an online search. It was exactly what I needed. They provided me with links to specific cancer resources, found a hospital in Geneva and recommended a nurse at Hirslanden: Clinique des Grangettes, who helped me to schedule my first appointment and complete the patient registration form in French.

Through Cancer Support Switzerland, I discovered a community I never expected to find. They offered me a wide range of services from mental health support to activities that fostered meaningful connections. I joined programs like Breast Cancer Support (Bosom Pals), Walk'nTalk, heART Space and did a Look Good Feel Better workshop, all of which allowed me to connect with others on similar journeys.

Meeting these incredible individuals, some newly diagnosed and others further along in their paths, reminded me that I wasn't alone, and I didn't need to face cancer alone. From navigating language barriers and uncertainty, the journey transformed into one of community and encouragement.

If you or someone you know is navigating a similar journey, I encourage you to seek out support. You'll find not only the help you need but also a community that will walk alongside you every step of the way.

NEW SERVICE LAUNCH

Spotlight on Supporting the Bereaved

In 2024, we introduced the Bereavement Support Group to meet the growing need for specialised care for individuals grieving the loss of a loved one. This initiative was developed to address the realisation that families of cancer patients often require ongoing emotional support after their loved ones pass away. We recognise that grieving is a continuous and challenging journey, and we are committed to providing the necessary resources to support individuals during this time.

SMITA SINGH

Psychosocial Counsellor and Support Services Coordinator

BEREAVEMENT SUPPORT GROUP

The Bereavement Support Group creates a safe, confidential and compassionate space where participants can share their experiences, express their grief, and receive support from both peers and a trained counsellor. By bringing together people who are navigating similar emotions and experiences, this group fosters a sense of connection, allowing participants to feel less isolated in their grief. We aim to provide an environment where individuals can process their emotions and begin to heal, knowing they are not alone.

ONLINE GRIEF WORKSHOP

To complement the in-person support group, we also introduced the Online Grief Workshop, designed for those who may not be able to attend face-to-face sessions. This flexible and accessible alternative allows participants to learn about the stages of grief and explore ways of coping with the feelings that arise from losing a loved one. The workshop also includes opportunities for virtual connection, enabling individuals to interact with others who are going through similar experiences.

Both the Bereavement Support Group and the Online Grief Workshop are essential components of our broader approach to supporting the bereaved. They provide the necessary tools for healing and help reduce the isolation that often accompanies grief. Through these services, we are reaffirming our commitment to supporting individuals at every stage of their cancer journey – from diagnosis to bereavement – ensuring no one has to navigate this difficult process alone.

Story of Hope

BY: WENDY JONES

As a new year rolled in at the start of 2023, I told myself, 'This is going to be a good year.'

And it started brilliantly! Life was good, living with my French husband just over the border from Geneva with regular trips back and forth to Wales UK.

So, when I felt a lump in my breast in February I kinda brushed it aside as nothing. I had had my routine mammogram only a few months earlier so told myself it was nothing to worry about. But it got bigger. Fast track to April when I was diagnosed with HER2-positive breast cancer and a whirlwind of activity followed.

While I got ready to start cancer treatment in the French medical system, one day I searched online for “English speaking cancer support near me”, and voila! Cancer Support Switzerland (ESCA CancerSupport as it was then) popped onto my screen and I cried with relief. Just knowing of their existence gave me ‘peace of mind.’

Over the next year and a half as and when I felt well enough, I'd join in with their yoga, gardening, art therapy and Walk'nTalk groups. When I needed to offload, I could speak to one of their trained in-house counsellors.

January 2025 and a CT scan reconfirmed I'm cancer free.

I'm now a volunteer at Cancer Support Switzerland and looking forward to giving back. I feel a sense of belonging to this amazing group.

I decided to document my whole cancer journey 'right from the start' with local professional photographers in order to raise awareness that breast cancer can form in between mammograms appointments.

So, I've lots to look forward to now. Thanks for all you've done for me x

Community Fundraisers

Our Community Fundraisers embody the spirit of engagement and support at the heart of Cancer Support Switzerland. Beyond raising funds, these initiatives play an important role in increasing awareness of our organisation and the vital services we provide. Community members lead a variety of activities—from fitness challenges to crafting homemade items—all united by a shared commitment to supporting our mission. We assist their efforts by refining ideas, providing branded materials, and amplifying their work through our communication channels.

As an example, one of our dedicated volunteers from the Zurich-based group, Karen Spink, celebrated her 60th birthday in 2024; a milestone she once feared she might not reach due to an earlier cancer diagnosis. In honour of overcoming this challenge, Karen saw an opportunity to raise funds and awareness for our organisation. Instead of receiving presents, she encouraged friends and family to donate to Cancer Support Switzerland in her honour. Through this simple yet impactful gesture, she raised over CHF 774, expanding not only our financial support but also awareness of our services.

Karen's commitment didn't stop there. She has been the driving force in making Cancer Support Switzerland the chosen charity of the American Women's Club of Zurich for the coming years helping us to expand awareness of our work in the region.

Karen's generosity is a testament to the power of community-driven fundraising and an inspiration to others. We are deeply grateful for her ongoing support, as well as the dedication of the American Women's Club of Zurich. Thank you.

Collaborations & Partnerships

We continued our in-person outreach with information stands throughout the year around the country, staffed by our committed volunteers. These included events at hospitals, companies, communities and joining our partner organisations in marking their important days.

Our first info stands in Zurich, including at the Zurich University Hospital and the Brust-Zentrum, helped raise awareness of the new dedicated Cancer Support Switzerland services being offered there. Information stands continue to be an important means to communicate our support services and meet in person with people affected by cancer, healthcare professionals, community members and potential volunteers or partners.

We joined forces with Entraide Protestante Suisse and Fondation genevoise pour la depistage du cancer to talk about cancer support specifically to the Filipino community in Geneva.

As usual, October was a busy month as our staff and volunteers participated in several Pink October/Octobre Rose events and initiatives which raise awareness of breast cancer across the country. These involved presentations at companies and hospitals, as well as many info stands in Geneva, Vaud and Zurich.

We also partnered with Palliative Genève to organise Death Cafés, an English version of the Café Mortels that originate in Switzerland but are being organised globally to create safe spaces to discuss death and mortality.

In November, a Movember event focused on men's mental health was co-hosted at our Geneva centre. We also collaborated with the Ligue genevoise contre le cancer and Action Margaux on a Movember social medial campaign.

We look forward to continuing these efforts in 2025, with a particular focus on expanding our reach and impact. This includes increasing our visibility in German-speaking Switzerland, ensuring that more individuals are aware of and can access our support services nationwide.

THANK YOU TO OUR VOLUNTEERS

As we enter our 25th year, we would like to take this time to reflect on the incredible contribution of our volunteer team. Many have been a part of our organisation for a long time, and some almost from the start. They have seen changes and been part of our growth and expansion yet have remained our constant. Whether more recent or long-serving, our volunteers' loyalty, hard work reliability and kindness makes a difference to the organisation as a whole and more importantly to those we support. In 2024, for the first time we reached 100 volunteers, including a newly established team in the Zurich area. Thank you to each and every one for inspiring us every day. We look forward to continuing this journey together into 2025 and beyond.

THANK YOU TO OUR COMMUNITY

Our sincere gratitude goes out to all who generously supported Cancer Support Switzerland this year: our members, our donors and those who made gifts in memory of a loved one. Our Support Team provides unwavering guidance and care to cancer patients and their loved ones during some of life's most difficult moments. These contributions not only honour those we have supported but also ensure we can continue providing vital care to those in need.

The fifth annual edition of Steps for Cancer Support was a triumph, raising over CHF 250,000. 1,930 participants from around the world walked an incredible 428 million steps—equivalent to circling the globe seven times.

Continuing an annual tradition, we kicked off the challenge with a walk by Lake Geneva. In collaboration with the American International Women's Club in Geneva and dedicated Zurich volunteers, we also organised four community walks in the Geneva and Zurich region over the 20-day event.

To celebrate the incredible efforts of our participants, we once again hosted an awards ceremony recognising the top teams and individuals in stepping, fundraising and the ever-popular silly photo category.

A heartfelt thank you to everyone who donated, participated and supported this initiative—your contributions enable us to continue providing free support to those affected by cancer.

In 2025, we aim to build on past successes by increasing corporate participation and enhancing the visibility of their involvement. We also hope to continue to foster the enthusiasm of our Cancer Support Switzerland Champions, encouraging even more participants to walk or run 10,000 steps a day.

Beyond maintaining growth, we will endeavour to evolve and enhance the challenge. This includes extending the fundraising timeline to encourage greater community contributions and increasing peer-to-peer fundraising with the help of our new website platform. We also aim to strengthen the connection between our Steps for Cancer Support challenge and the positive impact on our support services.

Finances

The 2024 income appears, at first glance, to have fallen slightly. The reason for this is that the 2023 income figure benefitted from the release of a provision associated with a restricted donation. When adjusted for this, the actual income for 2024 increased by 13% to CHF 823,000. Of that sum, CHF 100,000 has been earmarked for projects in 2025. The income from our Steps for Cancer Support fundraiser showed extremely encouraging growth and the Board hopes that with some increased investment (see below) this growth will continue.

The increased spend on our core services, counselling (up 5%) and other support services (up 17%) reflects the increase in individuals seeking support, as well as our focused expansion outside the Lake Geneva Region.

The spend on fundraising has increased following a decision to invest and streamline our processes in relation to Steps for Cancer Support as it becomes an increasingly important source of income and awareness raising. Specific efforts are being made in the English-speaking corporate community. It is anticipated that fundraising costs will reduce no later than 2026 when we anticipate reaping the benefits of the investment.

Whilst the financial statements show a loss for the year, this reflects a conscious decision of the Board to use, but not waste, our surplus income for the benefit of our community of individuals affected by cancer. The Board continues to monitor our reserves closely but will continue to budget for modest deficits for the next two-three years at least.

A full version of the audited financial statements is available on our website.
